

August 2017

Dear MACSA Colleagues,

Greetings in the name of the One in whom are hidden all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge... and the One we serve in bringing those treasures to the next generation in our Christian schools.

As you may know, I am the newly appointed Executive Director for MACSA, and I write you, both to introduce myself, and bless you in this coming year, as we partner to enrich one another in our ministry together.

With over 37 years in Christian education, both here, and in Eastern Europe, the Lord has brought me to the place where I desire to serve you in energizing and fortifying our work around best practices, the Word of God, and consulting with you over the issues and future of our movement.

I was head of school, for 17 years each, in Schenectady, NY and, most recently, in Wilmington, DE. Sandwiched between, I served on the CoMission to Russia from 1992-1996, followed by a 3-year role as educational consultant to the novice Christian schools in Hungary, Romania, Slovakia, Poland, as well as in other parts of Europe. Now, I am very excited to be leading MACSA into its next era of development, and coming alongside you in bolstering your administration in these days.

As I look ahead, sensing what God has for us all in the Mid-Atlantic region, I desire to develop a strategic plan for MACSA that will better serve you, in serving our Savior. This will require hearing from you as to your needs, and how MACSA can best assist you in those needs. There are some new opportunities in front of us in having an executive director.

I am available to come visit your school, meet with your board, encourage your faculty, and develop a closer relationship with you as the head of school. I am also looking to both expand services that will best help you, as well as evaluate what now works and meets a need.

For starters, I would love to hear from you! Would you please take a few moments (I know, you don't have any with school starting), to write and share your heart and mind with me as to what MACSA can do for you?

I want to visit your school...I'll start with those who invite me! I want to develop some small group meetings to encourage and learn from one another, perhaps gain new members in the process. I want to provide better communication with you through regular articles and newsletters.

There is much to do, and I am eager to get going... contact me at BStevens@macsaonline.org to begin the conversation about our future that will lead to the construction of a better Mid-Atlantic Christian Schools Association. See you in Lancaster for the PD Forum!
